Ballots Award For Primaries Let By Board

Petitions Granted 165 Candidates; Two Withdraw

Wellsville and Columbus firms received contracts to provide election supplies for the May 7 primaries when the County Election Board met Monday afternoon.

The board also approved the petitions of 165 candidates for the primaries and an Independent candidate whose name will appear on the November general election ballot.

It also accepted the withdrawal of a Democratic council candidate in Salem and a Republican candidate for the Board of Trustees in Leetonia. The withdrawals eliminate the need for a Democratic primary in Salem and a GOP primary in Leetonia.

The board also made plans to conduct special elections after approving four tax levies for the May primaries.

Salem Bidder Second
The Wellsville Publishing Co. received the contract to furnish the ballots for the primaries on its low bid of $2,351.68. The only other bidder, the Dodge Publishing Co. of Salem, asked $2,941.89.

The Columbus Blank Book Co. was awarded the contract to supply precinct poll books for both the May primaries and the November general election on its bid of $24.05 per precinct.

The Johnson-Watson Co. of Dayton asked $25.30 per precinct and the Herr Printing Co. also of Columbus, offered poll books at $25.40 per precinct.

After checking the sufficiency of the nominating petitions, the board accepted the petitions of 86 Republicans and 79 Democrats for the party primaries.

It also accepted the petition of Stephen Bozich as an Independent candidate for mayor in East Palestine. By filing as an Independent, Bozich will bypass the primaries and his name will be listed as a mayoralty candidate in November.

Kovach, Stelts Withdraw
The withdrawals of Arnold Kovach as a Democratic candidate for Fourth Ward councilman in Salem and Donald J. Stelts as a Republican candidate for the Board of Trustees in Leetonia were accepted.

Kovach had announced Friday that he would withdraw. He said he had been advised by the election board he was not eligible to run on the Democratic ticket because he had voted as a Republican in the 1959 primary.

His withdrawal left Robert C. Straub unopposed for the Democratic nomination for the Council seat and eliminates the necessity for the party primary.

No reason was announced for Stelts' withdrawal, which eliminated any contest on the GOP ticket in Leetonia. Clarence Bricker, Russell E. Smith and Orrin

Three-Semester School Year Is Proposed In Legislature

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three full school terms to encompass the entire school year and make better use of Ohioans' huge school investment is the aim of a bill introduced Monday night as the legislature began its sixth work week.

Pupils would attend two of the three "trimesters," by assignment, and teachers would instruct for either two or three of the annual sessions, at their option, under a plan offered by Reps. Walter E. Powell, R-Butler, Sam Landes, R-Madison; Barry Levey, R-Butler, and Charles A. Mooney, D-Cuyahoga.

Powell, a school principal, advocated a similar plan two years ago, but it died after receiving approval of the House Education Committee.

The plan to make year-around use of school buildings would not be mandatory on local school boards. If the boards chose to experiment with the trimester plan, Powell and his co-sponsors suggest the year be split into three segments of about 80 school days each.

He said the plan would permit 50 per cent more pupils to use present school buildings over a year's time.

A major bill to be introduced today is a measure to prohibit unfair housing practices. It would prohibit refusal to sell, rent, lease, or transfer housing on grounds of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry or refusal to negotiate for such purposes.

The measure also would bar a financial institution from inquiring into such matters and would ban publication of advertisements indicating any preference or limitation in the field.

Chief sponsor is Rep. David Albritton, R-Hamilton. Others are Reps. Stanley Aronoff, R-Hamilton; Carlton Davidson, R-Lancaster; A. G. Lancione, D-Belmont, and Carl Stokes, D-Cuyahoga.

Sen. Charles J. Carney, D-Mahoning, Monday night called for a study ending in 1965 looking toward a state income tax to replace the present 3 per cent state sales tax — the Ohio treasury's biggest money producer.

Senators Say Critics Can't Produce Facts

Claim JFK Proved Stand of No Arms Buildup on Island

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration, under heavy fire from its political opponents, is striking back at Republican critics of its Cuban policy.

In the face of a fresh assault by GOP congressional leaders on "the inept conduct of our foreign affairs by the Kennedy administration," Sens. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., have teamed to condemn what they called partisan and irresponsible charges.

Mansfield, the Democratic leader, pointed his guns at New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sens. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa. He told the Senate Monday that "irresponsible public utterances are playing dangerously with the fires of public emotion."

Humphrey called on Republicans to make certain that "a rash of charges that cannot be substantiated by facts do not find their way into this chamber" or into the newspapers.

"The people are worried, concerned and indeed confused because of so many conflicting reports," he said. He added that President Kennedy, the Defense Department and the Central Intelligence Agency "have been frank and candid" in disclosing Soviet military strength in Cuba.

Mansfield said Rockefeller was well informed on Latin American affairs, but "I must confess that I looked in vain for a contribution worthy of him" in the governor's comments on Cuba.

Rockefeller has said the administration's disclosures about Cuba left many unanswered questions. He said that while Soviet soldiers and equipment there may not pose a military threat to the United States, they constitute a propaganda, subversive and possible military threat to other hemisphere nations.

Mansfield flatly denied — as Scott had suggested — that there was any deal between Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Kennedy for the removal of American missiles in Europe in exchange for the withdrawal of Soviet missiles in Cuba.

In a barb patently aimed at Keating, one of the most vocal critics of the administration, Mansfield told his colleagues he would be the last to suggest that members of Congress know less about matters pertaining to Cuba than the President, the Secretary

State School Budget Cut $389,872

Board Hears Report On Reduced Spending

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Board of Education has heard a report by Instruction Supt. E. E. Holt on the effect reduced in state expenditures have had on the Education Department.

Board members also received Monday proposals for a broad school improvement program including urgent goals to be achieved by 1970.

Referring to an across-the-board cut of 9.1 per cent in operating costs of state departments, Holt said the order will mean reduced expenditures of $389,872 for his department in the last half of the fiscal year ending June 30.

He added however, that he was advised by Finance Director Richard Krabach that no cuts were to be made in essential services.

Twenty-four persons originally were dropped from the department's payroll, but 12 have been restored because their services were judged essential, Holt said.

The improvement program, prepared by a board committee, was submitted to the board for adoption after seven months of preparation.

Among other things, it called for increasing from 240 to 500 the minimum size for senior high schools "where topography and density of population permit," widespread experimentation in instruction, and a post high school public education program which includes vocational, technical and adult programs.

In other business, the board decided on a study of a proposal to ask Atty. Gen. William Saxbe to file a brief in an action before the U. S. Supreme Court involving Bible reading and reciting the Lord's Prayer in classrooms. John Morrison, Aurora, who made the proposal, said 19 other states are taking this action in support of Bible reading and prayers in school.

The board decided to take another look at transfer policies involving earlier decisions on municipal annexations in Lorain and Butler counties.

One earlier action denied a request by the city of Lorain to transfer portions of the Vermillion, Amherst and Firelands districts to the Lorain City District. Lorain Solicitor Edward Conley urged reconsideration, saying the city had induced the Ford Motor Co.

Lower to Be Feted At Testimonial March 26

Public tribute will be paid March 26 to Columbiana County's retiring agricultural extension agent, Floyd Lower.

The recognition event for the farm agent with 38 years of service has been planned by the Columbiana County Extension Advisory Council, headed by Ralph Schneider of North Georgetown.

It will be held at Crestview High School at 8 p.m., a month after Lower's official resignation, according to Don Myers, county agent for agriculture, who will be his replacement.

People who have known Lower well during his tenure as extension agent will be on the speaking program.

These include Mrs. Ture Johnson of Burton who, as Miss Irma Ramseyer, was county home economics agent from 1939 to 1947; John Strausbaugh, Trumbull County farm agent, who was Lower's associate from 1936 to 1944; C. A. Haas, Northeast Ohio extension supervisor; Wilbur B. Wood, Ohio director of extension; and C. M. Ferguson, currently of the University of Wisconsin's Department of Advanced Study in the College of Agriculture.

Ferguson worked closely with Lower when Ferguson was poultry specialist in northeast Ohio and later as state director of extension and federal administrator of extension in Washington, D. C.

Galen Greenisen, county commissioner-farmer and long-time acquaintance of Lower's, will review extension activities from the time Lower assumed the post Jan. 1, 1925.

Chester Roof, farm representative for the Farmers National Bank of Salem, will be master of ceremonies at the open house and reception for Mr. and Mrs. Lower.

Driver Faces 2 Charges In Two Mishaps

Dr. Frank J. Mangus, 62, of 925 Home Circle is scheduled to appear in Mayor Dean B. Cranmer's court at 7 p.m. today on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The charge follows a two-car accident involving cars driven by the dentist and Walter Garrett, 20, of Tallmadge at 4:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of N. Ellsworth Ave. and 10th St. Garrett is a member of the Tree Specs Trio of Akron which sang at First Church of the Nazarene services here Sunday morning.

After the collision, Garrett and his passenger, Vivian Garrett, 18, of Tallmadge were taken to the Central Clinic Hospital by police cruiser and treated for contusions.

According to police report which was not released Monday, the southbound Garrett car was stopped for a traffic signal when the car was struck by Dr. Mangus's car, also going south. Both automobiles were damaged and hauled away to a garage wrecker.

Moments before this accident, the Mangus car is reported by the state patrol to have struck a car operated by Alberta Quinn, 28, of Geneva on Route 45, about a mile north of Salem. The Quinn car was slightly damaged. According to the highway patrol in Canfield, Dr. Mangus will be charged with reckless operation as a result of this mishap.

Taken to the police station after the second wreck, Dr. Mangus was detained for several hours in the city jail after refusing to submit to an intoximeter test. He was later released on $500 bond pending this evening's hearing.

Another motorist, Charles Hum Jr., 46, of RD 4, Salem arrested for driving while intoxicated after Hum knocked over a gas pump at Hippely's Amoco station at the corner of Second St. and N. Ellsworth Ave. Sunday afternoon has been fined $150 and sentenced to three days in jail by Mayor Cranmer.

4 At Lisbon Protest High Coin Device Fees

LISBON — In regular session Monday night, Village Council heard a complaint from local owners of taverns and recreation centers that a license to have coin-operated machines is "too high."

Other matters considered at the Council meeting were: Village financial report, cost of gas locally in the coming year, a new bridge over Little Beaver Creek off S. Market St., and preparation for Morgan's Raid Centennial this summer.

Four men who pay $250 per year to the village to have coin-operated machines told Council no other village or city in Columbiana County has such a high fee.

Urging a lower coin machine license fee were: Daniel Guappone of Danny's Tavern, Elvin Davis of Haught's Tavern, Carmen Terpoli of the Lisbon Recreation Center, and John Whitacre of the Lisbon Eagles Club.

Mayor Dean Stockman recalled that when the ordinance pertaining to the fee for operation of coin machines went into effect, the ordinance was designed to take care of the licensing of pin-ball machines. He said that the police committee of Council would take the matter under consideration and report recommendations at the next Council meeting Feb. 25.

Council agreed to remove two parking meters on S. Market St. in front of Brandau Plumbing and the Bennet Building so that coal trucks coming east on W. Washington St. can make the turn up S. Market St.

Clerk-Treasurer Ray Hempstead reported the village has $2,568 in the general fund; $12,860 in street fund; $4,495 in state highway fund; and $1,776 in parking meter fund after bills of over $3,800 were paid this week.

Gas Rates Unchanged
Gas rates for the coming year will remain the same as for last year, Council was informed by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co.

Howard Adams of Salineville, representing the Construction and Machine Co., gave council figures on a new Huber-Warco maintenance machine.

City Solicitor Joseph Baronzzi told Council he needed one signature for right-of-way for a new bridge over Little Beaver Creek off S. Market St. into Jordondville. The new bridge is expected to be constructed this summer.

Councilman Robert Kelm told of progress on the preparations for the Morgan's Raid Centennial celebration set to take place this year. It is hoped that the celebration will be held July 21 through July 28, but these dates have yet to be confirmed. At present, the Lion's Club expects to hold their street fair at the time of the centennial.

Volunteer firemen would like a smoke ejector for their use, Councilman Fred Steele reported. Several new members of the fire department as yet do not have boots and rain coats for fire fighting, Steele commented.

Announcement of a meeting of the finance committee next Monday at 9 p.m. was made by Mayor Stockman.

It was reported that Lisbon

U.S. Marine Officers Start on 50-Mile Hike Today

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP)—This is the Day of Decision for the Marines.

This is the day they learn whether they're as physically fit as Boy Scouts, female reporters or Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

This is the day that 34 officers, led by Brig. Gen. R. McC. Tompkins, set off determinedly on a 50-mile hike.

What began as a lark quickly turned into something decidedly different.

Marine Commandant Gen. David M. Shoup discovered an ancient order by President Teddy Roosevelt that showed how a 1908 Marine was expected to march 50 miles within three days.

Shoup sent the old order to President Kennedy, who wondered whether today's Marines were as fit. So the tests were called for.

But horrors! Before the Marines could prove how remarkably trained they are, a passel of fitness fiends, from the attorney

Party at White House To Honor Abe Lincoln

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abraham Lincoln, the first Republican president in the White House, will be honored today by the present Democratic occupants with a birthday party keyed to civil rights.

In advance of the party, President Kennedy will receive a special 250-page historians' report on the progress made in civil rights in the 100 years since Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

The President and his wife invited some 800 top officials and civil rights leaders from across the country to a buffet reception at the White House tonight, but banned press coverage of the event.

This is the first such major social event at the White House during the Kennedy administration where no reporters have been allowed.

Asked why there was a press ban, except for a brief picture taking session, presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger said some events at the White House were open to coverage and others were not.

Lincoln's birthday traditionally has been a Republican day of celebration with dinners and speeches sponsored by the GOP. There were some grumblings in the capital that Kennedy was trying to take the publicity edge off such events.

As usual, no announcement of the White House guest list was made in advance. It was indicated however, that a number of Negro leaders of the desegregation fight had been invited, along with state officials and civil rights leaders from across the country.

Reporters were invited, however, to attend a 5 p.m. White House ceremony at which Kennedy will receive the progress report from his Commission on Civil Rights.

WHERE'S BY BIKE? — A nine-year-old boy finds the going tough in Long Beach, Calif., Feb. 10 in the aftermath of a heavy rainfall over the week-end in Southern California. His pal, in the background, is in worse shape—he can't find his bicycle.

Builds Numerous Monitoring Stations

State Acts on Water Pollution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A series of small structures — suggested by the irreverent to resemble outhouses — will play an important part in the state's latest move against pollution of the water you work with bathe in and drink.

"Besides trying to cure our public waterways of pollution, we're moving into a preventive pollution control program to try to prevent repetition of past sickness or development of new ills during the healing process," says George H. Eagle, chief of the Sanitary Engineering Division of the State Health Department.

The small structures expected to be a big help are monitoring stations equipped to take samples from water flowing past and record basically what's in it. Eagle calls this "a first step" — a regular and systematic checkup of our patients, namely our streams and lakes, before they get sick.

State health officials hope 50 monitoring stations will be installed at strategic upstream population-industrial centers and at the mouth of key Ohio waterways within three years.

Specialists of the U.S. Geological Survey are installing the equipment and will maintain it under arrangement with the State Health Department.

The federal agency pays for the equipment — Eagle estimates average installation cost at $7,000 — and the approximately $500-per-station-per-year operating cost is paid from an annual grant to Ohio under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1956.

Stations have been set up on the Miami River at Miamisburg and Taylorsville Dam, below Huffman Dam on the Mad River and Englewood Dam on the Stillwater River. Other installations are on the Maumee and Mahoning rivers and near the mouth of the Cuyahoga at Cleveland.

The monitoring stations do not have to be manned, except for maintenance and replacing of graphs, Eagle says.

"In our opinion," he says, "the state needs a monitoring system that provides definition of water quality, a means of assessing natural or man-made contributions to the water, and detection and policing of man-made additions."

With the planned network of monitoring stations and continuation of reports from water and sewage plant operators (on conditions above and below their facilities), Eagle thinks Ohio will be "about as far along" as any state in this phase of pollution control.

"Ohio communities and industry have made progress in building needed treatment facilities, and we are emphasizing proper maintenance and operation," Eagle says. "We want to make sure all wastes get to a treatment plant."

Since the legislature enacted a water pollution control law with teeth in it — fines and imprisonment provisions — in 1951 about $750 million has been invested in cleaner waterways in Ohio, the State Health Department estimates.

About $50 million of that total was spent by municipalities and industries during the past year, it's estimated.

Only seven of Ohio's 194 cities still are without any sewage treatment, the department says, and six now have reached the construction stage. Forty-six villages are regarded as needing facilities, the department says, and 13 are in the construction stage.

Of 570 industries under the Water Pollution Control Board's permit program, officials say 124 need more adequate measures.

Lincoln Jr., for an address to the joint session of the Ohio General Assembly. He had asked: "Please arrange no ceremonies which will waste time," since the country was in turmoil and the Union divided.

He spent something like 18 hours here. The program began with his arrival at 2 p.m. and included a parade down High Street, a reception in the governor's office and the brief address.

His party included Mrs. Lincoln and their three sons. They stayed overnight with Gov. Dennison and left Columbus the next morning at 8 a.m. Their route to Washington took them to Pittsburgh and back to Cleveland before leaving Ohio for Pennsylvania.

Lincoln's return to Columbus in his funeral train was on April 29, 1865, and the body was en route for entombment in Springfield, Ill. The body, on that day, lay in the Statehouse rotunda for "nine solemn hours on a soft April day."

The funeral train had come to Columbus from Cleveland. "At every town along the line—Berea, Grafton, Wellington, Crestline, Mount Gilead, Cardington, Worthington, and all the others—crowds stood beside bonfires to see the train pass," according to the late Robert S. Harper, student of Lincoln, in "During Two Journeys," published by the Ohio Lincoln Sesquicentennial Committee and the society in 1959.

Harper's sources say the reverence in which the populace held the slain President was manifest by the 8,000 persons per hour who passed the coffin and this "continued for more than six hours."

Dear Folks: We have found out recently that you can apply cornstarch or baking soda (and fr good ness sakes pour it on dry) on some spots on your carpet, rub it in gently with your vacuum cleaner.

This is especially good if the spot contains oils or butter fats (such as cream).

This is not a letter of laughter but thought that you should share in the "roar" we had when we read the letter that came in last week from a woman who wrote that she was mad at me and would never read the column again. . . .

She said that she went out and bought 16 boxes of cornstarch (after finding out that it took a spot off her rug that had been there a long time) and literally held each box waist-high and sprinkled it over her entire five-room apartment. Now she is mad at me because she had to dust all of her furniture.

Don't hold cornstarch or baking soda waist-high when you dab some of this powdered stuff on your rug. Naturally you will have to dust. Just apply a little bit of it to the spots and rub it in with your fingers and leave overnight. That's all there is to it.

And I do hope you don't mind my sticking my head in your door this day? While that pot of loaf from cracking while baking coffee is perking this morning, think of me as I will be wishing I could be right there with you. Love always, HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I keep meat loaf from cracking while baking. There are known to be about 40,000 kinds of fish.

by dipping my hand in cold water and rubbing the top of the meat until it is smooth before putting it in the oven. RUBY PERISH.

Official Says Firing State Help Is Legal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Layoffs of state employees in Ohio by the new Republican state administration, so far as the Civil Service Commission can determine, have not been in violation of the federal Hatch Act, a commission spokesman says.

The spokesman added Monday, however, that the commission based its finding solely on information supplied in a letter of protest from Democratic State Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin. He said that if Gilmartin can supply additional information, the commission "certainly will continue to investigate."

Gilmartin's letter reportedly charged that some layoffs have been in violation of the Hatch Act because the salaries of affected employees were paid in part with federal funds.

An estimated 3,500-4,000 state workers have been removed from state payrolls since Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes took office Jan. 14. The move was described as an austerity campaign designed to bring the state's expenditures and income into balance.

The commission said it planned to advise Gilmartin in a letter today of its finding.

DEMING DIVISION Crane Co.

We all owe a debt of gratitude to the Boy Scouts of America, for it is through this fine organization that millions of young boys throughout the country are being trained to take on the responsibilities that will one day be theirs as American citizens. In the Boy Scouts, each boy is pledged to Build, and Achieve, and to do his best always. Because of this excellent training in the formative years, we are confident that the Boy Scout of today will grow up into the kind of man who will someday provide the best leadership for our country.

Scouting Is Really Growing! Over 5 Million Since 1910

One of the reasons why Scouting attracts so many boys as members is because it gives them lots of fun under happy conditions and inspired leadership. The boy begins in Club Scouting. In three years he becomes a Boy Scout. His next step is Explorer. All are programs of the Boy Scouts of America.

Our Good Water Supply

It's been nearly five years since the fluoridation of Salem city water began. Some people may even have forgotten that fluorides are put in the local water supply to help cut down on tooth decay.

The observance of national Children's Dental Health Week is an opportune time to review the local fluoridation program which was started late in 1957 after City Council approved the action and met favorable public reaction, rather than emotional protests that have slowed progress in some cities.

Dentists agree that the incidence of tooth decay among children has lessened in every community which has used fluorides long enough to compile any reliable data and Detroit, which supplies water to 32 suburban communities, recently joined the long list of cities using fluoridation.

And, for a program so valuable the cost is low. Salem spent only $447.20 for fluorides last year to treat 482,000,000 gallons of water which is one of our best bargains. It's fairly inexpensive, is pure and clear, and we're fortunate to have lots of it.

The Unfinished Work...

"It is for us the living... to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced," said Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg.

That was 100 years ago next Nov. 19. The work is still unfinished. Those still striving to finish it in the spirit of dedication that Abraham Lincoln called on his countrymen to show are under relentless criticism.

There are living among us now as there were living among our forebears a century ago those who would divide the United States and make special rules for all who chafe under constitutional government.

Some of our fellow countrymen tell us that the Civil War never should have been fought and was settled wrong, according to their lights of what would have been a better settlement. We live in the presence of divisive elements that assert themselves in Congress, itself, to take away honor from the Americans who died at Gettysburg to preserve the Union—to make what they did there and on other Civil War battlefields of no avail.

Abraham Lincoln was a man of vision. When he spoke of "unfinished work," he may have known what others have been slow to learn; that the breach in the Union would be slow to close because tireless attempts to keep it open would be forthcoming from irreconcilables.

They are still with us, still trying to divide the United States.

One can only wonder what they think when they reread the Gettysburg Address each year on Feb. 12.

Long Live the Filibuster

The United States Senate has gone through the solemn mockery of pretending to have a debate on limiting debate. The outcome was as usual; the debate-limiters lost.

They expect to lose. If they were to win, the fun would be over. They no longer could go through the motions each year of outlawing Senate filibusters. They would be broken-hearted if it happened.

It is not the filibuster they want to outlaw. They want to outlaw the filibusterers. They want to make their use of unlimited debate so unpopular it will not be feasible for them to try it without overwhelming provocation.

The point is, every member of the U.S. Senate would carry on a filibuster if he had overwhelming provocation. The reason southern senators are noted for filibustering is because the civil rights issue gives them more overwhelming provocations than are common to senators from other parts of the country.

But let the others have good and sufficient cause and they would filibuster until the Senate chamber was three feet deep in boredom. Talk — "unlimited debate," legislators like to call it — is a minority's bulwark against oppression by the majority.

It is to be used but not abused. Its abuse is the issue in the Senate. Anti-filibusterers again have lost the debate over its use. But they have not lost the debate over its abuse. They have served notice that if the filibuster is abused they are within striking distance of having enough votes to outlaw it — 54 to 42 this time. All it would take to outlaw the filibuster would be a two-thirds majority of those voting.

Thought For a Second Semester

This is the touchy time in a school year when students who didn't do too well in the first semester are trying to quicken their pace in the second semester and sometimes feeling discouraged.

They are wondering if it's worth the effort to hold their heads out of the academic water that engulfs them. Might it not be easier to give up and sink?

No, it wouldn't. The U.S. Army Recruiting Service is passing around a sheet of paper for the benefit of potential goof-offs and drop-outs. The message is terse—Stay in School.

During World War II, it is pointed out, 700,000 men were rejected outright because they couldn't read and write; another 700,000 were accepted only for low-level work because their education was inadequate.

Two-thirds of today's unemployed didn't make it through high school. Eighty per cent of the country's unskilled workers—the ones who get the lowest pay—lack a high school education.

Some goof-offs and drop-outs can't help themselves. They are either slow-learners or no-learners. The Army Recruiting Service message is to students who can help themselves.

If they goof off or drop out for lack of determination to improve their chances, they will deserve what they get, which will be a double helping of nothing.

Why the Doves?

By Truman Twill

A proposal to legalize an annual slaughter of mourning doves has taken many of us by surprise — most of us, I should guess.

We didn't know the hunters were that hungry. We can understand why they want to blow pheasants to smithereens. A pheasant can make a meal. It is as big as a small chicken.

But a mourning dove is scarcely a morsel. Unlike pheasants, mourning doves would make no sport in the killing. They are gentle creatures, first cousins to pigeons, without the pigeons' bad reputation.

They do not congregate in cities. They do not roost on buildings. Though numerous enough to be known to everybody who lives in the country, they usually are seen only in pairs. They mate for life and spend all their time together.

Their name describes their song, a mourning sob, similar to the cooing of pigeons. They favor high places, such as telephone wires, though they frequently are seen on gravel roads in the country, dusting themselves.

At a casual glance they can be mistaken for pigeons, but they are trimmer and solid gray in color. Why anyone would want to shoot birds so gentle in nature and unobtrusive in behavior is a question that would have to be answered by avid hunters.

Why does anyone want to shoot anything that harms no one, other than for food?

Why does anyone want to shoot a pheasant that asks for nothing but the privilege of scratching out a precarious living in a countryside made more beautiful by the beauty of its feathers?

Why does anyone want to shoot a quail?

Hunters say it is because of the sport afforded by the violent death of these helpless creatures. They find some connection between loving the outdoors where the killing is inflicted in a way that gives the quarry no chance and proving how much they love the outdoors by causing the death of creatures that live there.

Some of us are as puzzled by this as we are by the reasoning of people who kill other people for sport. We concede only the right to kill for food and survival. Killing for sport leaves us cold.

We are impressed by the fact that, historically, the urge to kill for sport, so-called, never has been checked short of depletion of the game to be killed, whereupon a program of restocking is instituted to create a new supply. There is no point of satiety in killing for sport.

But mourning doves! Are they threatening security? Are men that hard up for food?

Are mourning doves becoming a general pest, like the rabbits that infest some parts of the country, thanks in large part to their patron-killers who want them around in such numbers that no hunter will be unable to find one to knock sprawling when another hunting season opens?

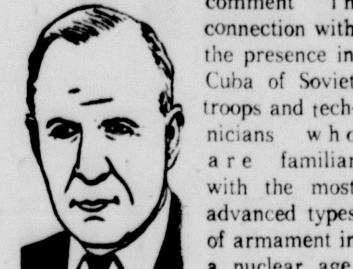

We like the mourning doves in our countryside. And also the robins, cardinals, meadow larks, brown thrashers, orioles, bluejays and woodpeckers. We like the pheasant and quail and the wild duck that will be coming this way again soon.

Is it necessary to kill everything? Couldn't the hunters just grimly knock over each other, or would that necessitate thinking up a reason to wage ideological warfare, instead of just legalizing an open season?

Kennedy Not Fooled by Nikita's 'Instructors' Line

By DAVID LAWRENCE

What size army needs 17,000 "weapons instructors"? This is the latest question raised as a result of Premier Khrushchev's comment in connection with the presence in Cuba of Soviet troops and technicians who are familiar with the most advanced types of armament in a nuclear age.

David Lawrence
ative can such a military operation have except to participate in revolutions throughout Latin America?

Certainly these queries become more pertinent than ever now that the Soviet premier attempted over the weekend to belittle the military aid he is giving the Castro regime. But Mr. Khrushchev is not fooling President Kennedy.

There was something in the President's voice, for instance, in his earnestness of expression for a few brief minutes during his last news conference, that tells more about the Cuban crisis than all the words of the transcript and the two-hour explanation on television by the Defense Department.

Mr. Kennedy handled himself with a frankness that reflected the serious concern of his countrymen.

If Premier Khrushchev reads the President's words carefully, he will find that the United States has not retreated, has not dropped its guard, and is not afraid to take the major steps that may become necessary if any deception of act or purpose should be proved.

NOR SHOULD those members of Congress who have brought matters to a head in the debate over offensive or defensive weapons remaining in Cuba be brushed aside as irresponsible critics. They have performed a constructive service. They have let Mr. Khrushchev know that President Kennedy is being questioned by the public opinion of his own country, which remains suspicious.

If the Soviet premier doesn't take the hint, he is not the man of peace and peaceful coexistence he has professed to be. If he is on the level in the Cuban affair, he now has a dramatic opportunity to prove it.

The crux of the whole dispute is not whether missiles remain in Cuba that could be used offensively, but why the Soviets keep 17,000 troops and technicians there with tanks and other armament.

The real point is the fear in the United States that the Russians have acquired a permanent military base next door to this country and are establishing the first colony in the Western Hemisphere that any European government has founded since the Monroe Doctrine was proclaimed in 1823.

These are not partisan matters. Democrats as well as Republicans have been prodding the President for more information. The result has been constructive. Mr. Kennedy now has resolutely begun to press for a clarification of purpose from Mr. Khrushchev.

And after our experience last fall we operate on the assumption, while hoping for the best, we expect the worst. It is very possible that the worst will come, and we should prepare for it. That is why we continue our daily surveillance. It is possible, conceivable, "We cannot prove that there is not a missile in a cave or that the Soviet Union isn't going to ship some next week. We prepare for that. But we will find them when they do and when they do, he Soviet Union and Cuba and the United States must all be aware that this will produce the greatest crisis which the world has faced in its history. So I think the Soviet Union will proceed with caution and care, and I think we should."

MOSCOW MAY perceive in these lines an opportunity to set the record straight and chart a different course.

The President has made his position plain, and the critics, too, have made their points. Mr. Kennedy spoke at his last news conference not in the manner of the politician but with the natural sincerity of a president of the United States who has become conscious of an overwhelming responsibility to deal firmly with the presence of Soviet troops and armament in Cuba.

History Today

Today is Tuesday, Feb. 12, the 43rd day of 1963. There are 322 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day in 1809, the 16th president of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, was born in a log cabin in Larue County, Ky.

On this day: In 1795, Moses Brown made the first deposit of gold bullion for coinage in the United States.

In 1889, Norman Colman was appointed first secretary of agriculture following elevation of the Bureau of Agriculture to the status of an executive department of the U.S. government.

In 1935, the U.S. Navy dirigible Macon sank off the coast of California with all but two of the 83 persons aboard rescued.

In 1945, the White House announced that the Yalta Big Three Conference produced decisions on the defeat and postwar treatment of Germany.

Thought for today: Satire is a sort of glass, wherein beholders do generally discover everybody's face but their own — Sir John Banbrugh.

So They Say

I would rather be secretary of agriculture seeking to bring about some balance and to live effectively with our heavy production than presiding over serious scarcities, which is the lot of some of my erstwhile colleagues behind the Iron Curtain. —Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

With a Broader Meaning

War Industry In Cuba

By VICTOR RIESEL

Sovietized Cuba is preparing for wars. Not declared wars, but subversive wars starting deep inside such lands as Venezuela, Panama and even mammoth Brazil. Any industrial "detective" can tell you this.

Once you know what new factories are springing up; what plants are being thrown on a 24-hour basis; how readily they can be converted swiftly to the manufacture of weapons and support materiel; and what they are producing now—then you know immediately where this land is heading and what error the red chiefs of staff plan to export.

So it is not only what Cuba is importing. It's what it's building. Conversations this columnist has had with anti-Castro construction experts slipping in and out of Cuba reveal the rapid creation of a Castroite war industry. DETAILED REPORTS, for example, on the new "Havana Bay fishing port" have just been brought into our country. Russian technicians right now are getting it into full construction. When the "port" is finished by the "end of the year" it will be able to handle 154 to 160 ships of any kind—at one time. It will have freezer plants big enough to hold 10,000 tons of fish or other foods, certainly sufficient to replenish hundreds of red galleys on submarines, fighting craft and electronic monitoring "trawlers."

It will have built-in factories for processing special foods. There will be an enormous floating dock for instant repairs—also "many well-equipped repair shops."

This is merely on project. Another which has fascinated the anti-Fidelista underground is a "technological mining and machinery school." When finished it will be the first of its kind in all of Latin America.

It will be housed in three big buildings in El Cristo, Oriente. And to get them up quickly the Soviet technical teams have ordered Cuban construction workers on a "round-the-clock schedule."

THERE WILL be courses in 14 specialties. Of particular interest are the ones for the handling of explosives. Trusted Cubans will be taught the development, handling and nursing of compressors, key machine tools and special "loading and unloading techniques."

It should be remembered that all this industrial frenzy over the production and care of hardware is being pushed at a moment when the people are starving, food crops are going unharvested and "people's inspectors" are killing hoards.

There was once a little man with a brush mustache who roared for guns, not butter. Now the man with the beard has changed that a bit—to gun potential, no butter.

The goal is to be self-contained. In Santiago, Cuba, for instance, Czech technicians are directing the construction of a transport training school. Soon 600 young Cubans will be taught to handle lathes, tool grinders and drill presses.

WITHIN a few weeks, five Cubans will fly to Czechoslovakia for extended training in managing such a plant. In turn 25 Czech specialists will fly to Havana in June to "instruct the 61 Cuban professors who will form the teaching staff of the school."

When the five Cubans return from Prague later this year they will direct the institution. Cozy arrangement. It goes for scores of such projects.

Cuban industrial "commanders" range much further afield than Prague.

There is something called the Cuban "Consolidated Aviation Enterprise." For some time now it has had eight specialists learning the care of IL14 Soviet planes near Moscow.

The eight returned at the end of January. Their assignment is to pass on their knowledge to burgeoning Cuban ground crews. Obviously they are being prepared to handle bombers.

Meanwhile bomber crews are being trained behind the Iron Curtain. Thus when "The Day" comes for the withdrawal of Soviet military manpower from the island, there will be Cuban bomber pilots and ground crews to handle marauding craft. Wait and see.

THIS IS one vast Prince Potemkin operation—all developing behind a false front of civilian technology. Soviet, Czech, Bulgarian and Peking Chinese engineers are everywhere. They build a hydroelectric dam in the Sierra Maestra near Camilo Cienfuegos. They operate a new shipbuilding yard in the port of Cienfuegos. They install power plants.

Everywhere they are surrounded by Cuban youths who were kids when Fidel took over. They too are a war industry.

Someday it will be written that here it all began. This is where they prepared the invasions from within. Then, we will wonder, as we do about the Saar, or the Sudeten, or Munich, why we did nothing.

Now the civilized world justifiably wonders what is there to do about it?

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice is fairly good most of the time but you are wrong once in awhile. Recently you told a mother not to put curlers in her son's hair because children who are treated like members of the opposite sex sometimes develop homosexual tendencies.

I would like you to know that I've been putting curlers in my son's hair since he was 3 years of age. He is 8 now and just loves to go to the beauty shop with me. When I make an appointment for myself I make one for him, too.

I'll have you know that my son is ALL boy. He's not a roughneck but he's no sissy either. He likes model airplanes and ships and never misses a war story on TV. He also enjoys masculine sports and even plays on the Little League baseball team.

So, you see, Ann Landers, you don't know everything. — A MOTHER WHO IS RAISING AN ALL-AMERICAN BOY.

Dear Mother: You're right. I don't know everything. But I DO know that an 8-year-old son should not be sitting under the dryer in the beauty shop next to his mother.

If this All-American boy of yours goes to Little League practice with curlers in his hair you'd better teach him how to fight.

This Trip Necessary?

Dear Ann: My wife's mother is dying of cancer. The doctors say she can't live more than a few weeks. My wife is taking it awfully hard. Her mother lives 2000 miles from here and the trip would be expensive.

Her sister has written that their mother is under heavy sedation and sometimes she doesn't recognize members of the family. She has suggested that my wife not come now, but wait till the funeral. My wife agrees this would be best.

Frankly, I don't think my wife should go now OR to the funeral. She is a nervous person anyway and this ordeal would make a wreck out of her.

Furthermore, our children are small and I would have to arrange with the neighbors to take the baby when I am at work. It would also mean that I'd be doing the laundry and cooking.

Wouldn't it be more sensible to use the trip money on something we need? We need plenty. What is your advice?—SPOKANE DAD.

Dear Dad: I don't know what you "need" but there are mighty few things as important as sending your wife to her mother's funeral.

If you deny her this trip because you think it would be more sensible to spend the money on something else, you'll regret it.

Mother to Sister

Dear Ann: I'm 17 and live with my father and stepmother. I don't mind working around the house—in fact every girl should do her share—but I don't think it's fair that I have full responsibility for my 4-year-old stepdaughter, Betsy.

If I want to go anywhere after school or on Saturday or Sunday I have to take my little stepdaughter along. My stepmother says she is uooped up all day and needs some relief. I hate to plan for a date on weekends because if my folks decide to go out I have to cancel my plans and stay home with Betsy.

If you say I'm wrong I will change my thinking and never complain again. I'd appreciate your answer in the paper.—MOTHER TO MY SISTER.

Dear Mother to Your Sister: An older sister should help with the younger children. It's part of being a useful, contributing member of the family. But "help" does not mean full responsibility.

You should not be expected to take the little girl with you after school nor should you be asked to cancel weekend dates to stay at home with her. In an emergency, teen-agers should be willing to make sacrifices, but every weekend can't be an emergency.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOOD & FARM:2

Unhappy Truth: Too Many Farmers

By JOHN STROHM
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) If ignorance paid profits politicians could get rich from what they don't know about the farm problem. That spells bad news for city folks and progressive farmers again in 1963—another $4 billion tax bite.

Misguided attempts to "help" the farmer over the last 30 years have:

1. Drained away $48.6 billion in taxes.
2. Amassed a $7.5 billion hoard of food and fiber which has the fantastic rent bill of more than $1 million a day.
3. Tended to blunt the farmer's hard-earned efficiency.
4. Threatened to sap our food producing strength in the cold war.

INTENTIONS OF government planners—Democratic and Republican alike—are admirable, but a mile off base. They try to legislate farm income for three reasons:

1. Safety in Numbers. Politicians mistakenly believe a declining number of farms means farmers need handouts to assure you food in the future. Since 1925 the number of farms has dropped 42 per cent; each year more than 100,000 farms "disappear."

Only eight per cent of the population is now on the farm. But in a short 20 years the farmer has tripled output per man hour—the most fantastic increase in productivity for any big industry for any period.

TODAY 39 PER CENT of the country's 3,700,000 "farmers" produce 87 per cent of the total output and could easily produce the remaining 13 per cent. Over 97 per cent of these operations are family farms, run with family labor and family money.

"The fact that the number of farmers is decreasing is a sign of progress and economic growth," says Arthur Mauch, Michigan State University economist.

2. Save the Soil. Conservation has been another goal of farm

COMMERCIAL FARMERS like this grain farmer comprise only 39 per cent of the farm census, but grow 87 per cent of the total produce. Modern machines and know-how allow them to net $7,700 per year, and produce plentiful food and fiber for your family.

really preserve self-reliance when we hand government payments to farmers for NOT planting their land. NOT harvesting their grain. . . NOT using their initiative to produce food as efficiently as they know how? Not according to 9 out of every 10 farmers I interviewed around the country!

THEY ACCEPTED government payments last year, and will do so again in 1963. "But what can I do?" and Iowa corn grower asked me. "If I don't sign up for Freeman's program I have to sell on a rigged market."

Legislative errors bogged in murky logic will continue to cost us heavily until voters—city and country alike—understand the mixed-up mess enough to prod government planners. Herrel Degraff, former food economist at Cornell University, warns grimly:

"If we don't quit shrugging off the farm problem, we'll wake up with higher food prices, higher taxes, and controlled agriculture headed into the mediocrity of socialism."

WHAT IS THE Farm Problem? The farm problem is not surpluses, or government payments, or the Billie Sol Estes scandal. These are results, not causes.

The problem boils down to low farm income—for some farmers. Divide $13 billion net income from farming among all 3,700,000 farmers and they get less than a fair return for investment, labor and management. Department of Agriculture figures show "average" per capita personal income of the farm population from all sources is about $1,400 a year compared with a national average of about $2,300. Legislators mistakenly think this means all agriculture is "sick."

THEY DISREGARD the fact that the top 1,500,000 commercial farmers, who produce 87 per cent of our food and fiber, net about $7,700 per farm.

The "problem" is with the more than 2,200,000 others who produce the remaining 13 per cent and gross only $3,800 per far (only $500 from sales of farm products). Many of these brought more changes to farmers need some kind of help badly. They were left in the dust of a technological revolution that the farm in the last 40 years than in the previous 400. This is a social problem—not a farm problem. The hard and unhappy face is too many farmers, not too many bushels of corn.

WHICH FARMERS are in trouble?

Politicians' ideas about today's farmers are off by a costly country mile. Here's the true picture of who's producing your food and clothes:

Top Commercial Farmers

Ronald Erickson, who farms 400 acres near Woodland, Mich., is one of the million and a half farmers who comprise only 39 per cent of the total, but grow 87 per cent of our farm products.

Erickson's net income is close to the $7,700 average of this group. Not a very high return, considering he has $100,000 invested and often works a 60-hour week. Erickson's confidence in what's ahead for his family farm is starkly simple: "People have to eat. There'll always be a future in agriculture."

Erickson is one of the farmers you must depend on in the years ahead. His biggest worry: "Government controls—and the surpluses they've caused."

Part-Time Farmers: A factory worker in Denver is one of 885,000 part-timers or 24 per cent of what the census calls "farmers." Two years ago he bought a home and 10 acres outside the city. "I love animals," this city worker told me, "so I bought five Angus steers—for fun, and to earn a little side cash."

He wasn't aware that the government calls him a "farmer" because he sells more than $50 of "farm" produce a year. "Doesn't make much difference to me one way or the other," he shrugs. But he helps load the statistics.

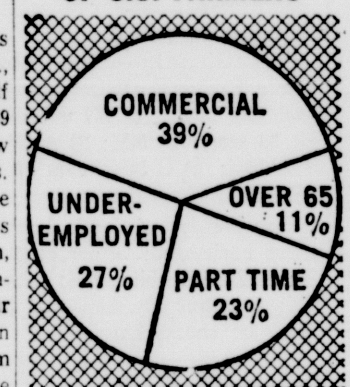

Other part-time farmers used to farm full time, until low incomes forced them to hunt jobs in town. Part-time farmers now spend more time working away from their farms, or get more income from non-farm jobs than from farming.

NET FARM INCOME or all 3,700,000 farmers was about $3,400 in 1961. When you add non farm income, income for all farmers was over $5,000 net.

Farmers over 65: There are 404,000 farmers—11 per cent of the total in the census—who are over 65. On the average, they sell less than 1,000 worth of farm produce a year. Few farmers over 65 I talked with farm full time any more, and that's the way they want it.

Underemployed Farmers: Here's the real farm problem. A million farmers sell less than $5,000 worth of farm products a year. They have no off-farm jobs, and can't make a decent living from the land.

They are greatly underemployed, lacking volume, capital, and in many cases, the know-how to profit from today's farming.

Their lack of income is the farm problem.

New machines, feeds and PART-TIME FARMERS make up 23 per cent of what the census calls farmers. This Indiana man works full-time in town, and supplements his income with small egg and beef operation. Listing only his "farm" income is highly misleading.

seeds were a bountiful boon to some farmers, but a curse to others. A 55-year-old Tennesseean told me he hasn't earned enough from his 180 acres to pay any income tax in six of the last eight years.

TOO OLD TO HUNT a job in town, he'll try to produce enough to eke out a living. Brutal fact is that the country no longer needs this farmer—an date last 1 million farmers like him, says the Committee for Economic Development. Progress is passing him by, as it did the harness maker and buggy whip manufacturer.

World War II prodded farmers to gear up to produce enough to fill the bellies of the world's hungry. When the war ended, the floods of higher yields and faster planners tried to legislate inflexible land and machinery resources back to peacetime demand but they had a bear by the tail.

Farm specialists are a mile apart on the function of farm legislation today. I recently surveyed leading economists in 30 states—men with no political axe to grind—asking: "Can legislation solve the farm problem?"

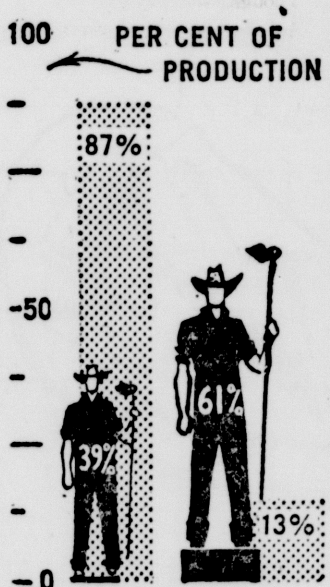

(Next: How they answered. The findings are important to every citizen.)

programs for the last 20 years. We need conservation to insure "abundance for our children as well as ourselves," Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman told the House Committee on Agriculture just a year ago.

But soil scientists say using the land does not weaken it. G. W. Hedlund, head of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell University, explains it this way:

"If soil is properly handled it can become even more productive with time, so that there is no case for periodic resting. Although some will not agree, most of our government payments programs were designed for something other than soil improvement."

One of the special joys of driving a Chevrolet springs from the vitality of the car itself. Even when you're soft-pedaling it, in no special hurry to get anywhere in particular, the feeling is unmistakably there. Comes a hill, a slow moving truck you want to pass or a real chips-down emergency—you've got surefired reserve power that gives you an extra margin of safety. A choice of engines with up to 425 horsepower sees to that. Short-stroke advanced-design engines that respond with smooth free-breathing efficiency unknown in the auto industry a few brief years ago. And coupled with that power is the kind of precise even-keel handling that puts you in complete control every self-assured instant you're at the wheel. Where do you get your hands on that wheel? The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Health Questions And Answers

Q—What is sacroiliac disease? What causes it and how does it affect you? Is there any cure?

A—The sacroiliac joint is at the lower end of the spinal column. Sprains in this region are common and very painful. Many people think that pain in the lower back is caused by diseased kidneys but we

Dr. Brandstadt know now that it is due to a sudden wrenching or a chronic strain on the ligaments attached to the lower spine. A sudden sharp pain may be due to lifting a heavy object by using the back muscles rather than the leg and hip muscles.

The gradually developing backache may be due to weakness of the abdominal and back muscles caused by a generally sedentary life or by faulty posture. Faulty posture while walking is common in women who wear high-heeled shoes, especially if they change from one height to another with different activities.

FAULTY POSTURE while sleeping is due to sagging springs or mattress. Your doctor should determine the cause in your case. When the condition is acute it may be necessary to spend two or three days in bed. Aspirin or other pain-relieving drugs and the use of a heating pad may give some relief. When the acute stage is over, corrective exercises and other measures aimed at removing the cause should be used.

Q—Recently as I was painting, I hung the paint bucket over the middle finger of my left hand. After holding it that way for about 30 minutes I found that my finger was numb. After 16 days it is still numb. Can anything be done for this?

A—This is a perfect example of a case where the best treatment is prevention. What you have incurred is a pressure paralysis. You will probably recover, but the more severe the paralysis, the longer it takes to recover. In some cases this may take several months. Electrical stimulation may help to speed recovery.

Q—My doctor says I have sarcoidosis. What, exactly, is it?

A—Sarcoidosis is a chronic process that may affect any part of the body. The cause is not known but recent studies suggest that it may be due to the inhalation of pine pollen or dust from peanut hulls.

In the skin and lymph nodes it causes a lumpy thickening. Healing is slow. The lumps appear gradually and may persist for several months. They are painless and do not itch.

Although the disease resembles tuberculosis, it has been shown not to be due to the tubercle bacillus.

As some of the lumps heal others usually form. The danger therefore lies in the fact that one of the vital organs may become involved. If this happens, cortisone or a related drug should be given along with isoniazid. The isoniazid would be given to prevent a flare-up of any childhood tuberculosis you may have had and thrown off without knowing it. Tuberculosis is notorious for lying dormant in the body only to reappear when you get run down or, as in this instance, take a hormone that gives it a second chance.

The Grand Army of the Republic reached its peak in 1890, with a membership of 409,489.

Officials Claim American Indian Isn't Vanishing

The so-called vanishing American Indian is not really vanishing, but is simply becoming better assimilated into our nation's society, an authority on sociology and anthropology says.

But, says Prof. Brewton Berry of Ohio State University, for the same reason there may someday be fewer full-blooded Indians. Inter-marriage with whites and Negroes means that the Indians' racial and cultural marks are becoming harder to identify.

Berry develops the tragic story of the once mighty, then vanquished Americans in "Almost White," a book just published.

What is an Indian? This question, Berry says, always stands as a stumbling block when studying what has happened to the American Indian. Even government census takers can't seem to agree on the answer. Some persons are classified as Indians for some purposes and non-Indian for others.

"Officially classified as Indians are many persons whose ancestry is largely that of other races," Berry says. "Individuals with as little as 1/256th part Indian blood have been included in allotments of tribal lands."

Different criteria are used by the Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and the Public Health Service, each of which makes its own count.

"Even so, there is no evidence that the Indians are fewer in number than they were in 1492," Berry says. Historians say there were about 800,000 Indian aborigines at the time of our nation's founding.

Failure to make the transfer, Kimmy said, appears to have blocked Hamilton's chances for industrial expansion and he added that that tax questions also have come up.

A board committee and Holt's staff were instructed to review transfer policies since some decisions appear to require consideration of industrial needs as well as needs of school districts.

In other actions, the board: —Delayed until the next meeting a recommendation that the charters of Chauncey - Dover Exempted Village, Gloucester Exempted Village, Ames-Bern, Carthage-Troy, The Plains, Rome-Canaan, Shade Trimble-Jackson and Waterloo high schools all of Athens County, be revoked for failure to meet minimum standards.

Beloit Council Defers Action On Ditch Job

general on down, had hit the road for 50-mile jaunts.

Walking, an almost forgotten art in this motor-mad nation, suddenly became as important as goldfish swallowing once was.

So the Marine who falters now is in disgrace. And, alas, the guessing here Monday night was that some might fail.

A veteran sergeant, pleased to see his officers on trial, predicted that at least three will never finish.

The sergeant hastily explained he wasn't doubting present-day officer material. What he was counting on, he said, was that some officers will have boots that are not well broken in, and that blisters will take their horrible toll.

The rules of the road are simple. Each officer is on his own. He must twice circle a 25-mile course at any speed he desires and is free to stop at any or all of the three rest stops. But he must hobble across the finish line, with a sprint, if possible, within three days. And his actual walking time must not exceed 20 hours.

Thirty-one of the marchers are lieutenants and captains drafted for this unenviable chore. General Tompkins, Col. J. O. Bell and Maj. C. J. Cizek have volunteered for the long hike.

He suffered a fractured pelvis and a possible dislocated hip. He is a patient in Robinson Memorial Hospital in Ravenna.

SMOKE BUT NO FIRE

City firemen went to the home of Charles M. McLaughlin of 164 W. Third St. at 5:29 p.m. Monday when a smoke pipe in the home became defective and caused a portion of the home to be filled with smoke. Chief Justice To Speak At Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Tight security measures and signs calling for his impeachment greeted Earl Warren, chief justice of the United States, Monday night. City and state leaders urged Georgians to treat the Supreme Court official with dignity and respect.

Warren is to speak today before an audience of students and faculty at Georgia Tech, commemorating the 75th anniversary of the school.

He arrived late Monday night under close police security. A few hours earlier an Atlanta physician was assured in state court that he had the constitutional right to display signs calling for impeachment of Warren. Twenty-four signs have been placed about the city on private property.

Warren was chief justice in 1954 when the Supreme Court outlawed segregation in public schools.

Georgia Tech began desegregation in 1961, as did Atlanta city schools.

The court case was launched by Dr. Henry G. Stelling, member of a group calling itself the Atlanta Committee for the Impeachment of Earl Warren. He asked the court to forbid Atlanta and its police force from removing or defacing the signs.

Stelling's petition was dismissed by Superior Court Judge Durwood T. Pye after an attorney for the city, Newell Edenfield, told the court that the city was in complete agreement that the physician had the right to place the signs on private property with the owners' consent.

Stelling said the committee sent a telegram to the chief justice which read in part: "We feel that you should know that you are not welcome here. We feel that you have not upheld your oath to defend the Constitution of the United States of America."

Some literature was distributed in the Georgia Legislature calling for Warren's impeachment, but most lawmakers dismissed it as "trash."

The anti-Warren activities prompted fears of a possible demonstration at the airport and a large group of state and city law enforcement officers were on hand. Newsmen and photographers were kept away from Warren and the party of officials greeting him.

committee will preside at the refreshment table.

Preceding the public reception at Crestview, Lower will have dinner at Timberlanes in Salem with a half dozen 4-H agents and 12 home economics agents with whom he worked in the past 38 years.

42 Years In Farm Work
Lower was Carroll County agent for four years before coming to Columbiana County, giving him a total of 42 years in extension work, the longest period of service of any of Ohio's farm agents.

He was born and raised near Alliance and was awarded his degree in agriculture from Ohio State University. He is the recipient of many honors including election to the Buckeye State Extension Workers Hall of Fame and the presidency of the Ruritan National, a post he just relinquished.

Beaver Local Board Lets Contract For 2 New Buses

Bids for two new 66-passenger school buses were accepted from two Columbiana County dealers Monday night by the Beaver Local School District Board of Education.

A Chevrolet bus with a Superio body will be purchased from Columbiana Motor Co. and another with a Thompson body will be bought from Lewis Chevrolet of Lisbon.

Other bidders were O. S. Hill Co. of Lisbon; Midway Motors of New Waterford; and Mike Turk and Wymer Motors of East Liverpool.

Special Study Planned
The board agreed, upon a recommendation of Dr. George VanHorne, executive head, to set aside the last six weeks of the school term in Problems of Democracy class for seniors to study "Communism vs. Democracy."

Representatives of the Ohio Education Association will be requested to review current Beaver Local teacher salary schedule and report the findings to the board.

The study will be made in relation to the board's recognition of a need for more pay which culminated at the January meeting in the approval of a three-mill levy issue to come before voters Nov. 3.

A two-month leave of absence was granted to bus driver Charles Gorbey.

The group voted to ask the Columbiana County Board of Health to conduct another pre-school clinic this year in the lower elementary buildings — Rogers, West Point and Calcutta.

Construction work at the public school, high school, Rogers elementary and Calcutta elementary was reported progressing well.

A decision was made to purchase a 60-quart mixer for school kitchen purposes. The equipment will be bought from Tri-State Equipment Co. of Beaver Falls at a cost of $544.

The board agreed to send a letter of gratitude to area newspapers and radio stations for their reports of school business and activities.

The use of the gyms was approved for:

Spring Fair, June 3-8.
Calcutta - Glenmore Ruritan Club, round and square dance, March 9.

Marion Firm Receives Space Agency Pact

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Marion Power Shovel Co., major manufacturer of heavy equipment, has received an order from the Space Agency to build two giant crawler vehicles to be used in the Apollo moonshot program.

To cost $5 million each, the 5.5 million pound crawlers will be used to carry the Apollo space launching position.

Adrian F. Busick, president and general manager of the firm, said Monday night it is too early to say whether the $10 million cost-plus contract will mean additional employment. The firm now employs 1,800 persons.

"It will depend on other business whether the contract imposes an additional load on our facilities," Busick said.

The crawlers will be so big—130 feet long and 115 feet wide—that Marion Power Shovel will ship them in pieces to the Space Agency's launching area near Merritt Island, Fla. They will be capable of lifting a load of 12 million pounds.

TALENT'S REWARD — Few actresses are busier than Geraldine Page. Above is how she appeared in the just completed "Toys in the Attic," opposite Dean Martin. She has contracts to appear in seven other films.

Salem Tests Youngstown East Defense Here Tonight

Quakers' Cabas Eyes 200th Win

Bill Beery Needs 15 For All-Time Record

A defensive-minded Youngstown East will invade Salem to battle the high-scoring Quakers in a clash at Senior High gymnasium tonight at 9.

Salem, fresh from two straight wins over the past weekend, will be seeking victory No. 200 for Coach John Cabas.

The Salem mentor began his career here 13 seasons ago. His teams have lost only 65 times during that span.

Youngstown East Coach Le Rivello has guided the Bears to a 9-6 mark this season. His squad has given up only 48 points a game to its opponents.

URSULINE CHALKED UP the most points against the Bears in a 79-62 loss. Cardinal Moore lost 64-61 to East. All the other squads that faced the Youngstown school have been under 60.

The probable starting lineup for the Bears will include senior Theo Lolakis 6-4 and Ray Mason 5-11, juniors Ted Boggs 6-2 and Ron Canacci, and Paul Dunlap 5-11 sophomore.

East opened the campaign by sweeping its first seven games in a row. The Bears have lost their last four to Ursuline, Canton McKinley, Chaney, and Youngstown South.

EARLY DURING the campaign East edged Alliance by one point. Salem whipped the Aviators 72-60 last Saturday.

Salem's starting lineup will see Bill Beery 6-1 and Rick Platt 5-9 at guards, Rick Sweitzer 6-1 and Marlin Waller 6-0 at forwards and Bob King 6-5 at center.

Dave Capel 5-9 and John Zilske 6-1 should see action at guard and forward, respectively.

Beery will be trying to eclipse the all-time Salem High individual scoring record of 1,050 tonight. If he can tally 15, he will go over the mark set by Jack Alexander by one point.

Bill Russell Is Officially Top Rebounder

NEW YORK (AP) — Officially, Bill Russell of the champion Boston Celtics ousted Dolph Schayes of the Syracuse Nationals as the all-time rebound leader in the National Basketball Association last week with a career total of 11,041 to 11,005.

Unofficially the veteran Schayes, now in his 15th NBA season, still leads. Why? Because no rebound records were kept in Schayes' first two seasons — 1948-49 and 1949-50. All of Russell's grabs have been officially recorded. He is in his seventh season with the NBA.

League statistics released today show Russell still second in rebounds for the current season with an average of 23.5 per game to 24.1 for Wilt Chamberlain of San Francisco. Chamberlain, now in his fourth NBA season, has a career total of 7,586 rebounds.

Chamberlain kept his usual No. 1 spot in scoring with 2,732 points although his average slipped from 46.0 to 45.5.

Bankers, Old Dutch Post Wins

Fad Music Rolls Up 102-60

Score On Damascus Auction

Six players scored in double figures as Fad Music ripped Damascus Auction 102-60 in City Basketball League competition at night.

In other contests Old Dutch knocked off first half champion Southeast Plaza 60-55 and First National whipped Berlin 97-48.

Musica led all the way by period scores of 23-8, 45-25 and 64-50.

BILL PAULINE took scoring honors for the winners with 24 points. Jim Foreman chipped in with 16. Fred Ackerman had 14, Chuck Greiner 12 and Dick Ehrhart 10.

Bob Morlan collected 14 markers to pace Damascus. Rich Conyers chalked up 13 and Larry Shreve and Milt Donahue each had 12.

Old Dutch took a 19-14 lead in the initial period, held a 36-28 margin at intermission and a 50-43 spread at the end of the third stanza.

Ed Daugherty tallied 21 points to take scoring honors for Dutch. Clyde Shoff and Dave Hiner each had 11.

Chuck Wilson paced Southeast with 20 markers. Wayne Harris chipped in with 19.

First National raced to a 15-6

Greenford Is 12th In Class A

Middletown Holds Top Spot In AP Basketball Poll

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The long process of cutting Ohio's field of 445 Class A high school basketball teams down to the state tournament quartet has started — in Indiana.

Second round games in the Preble County eliminations were staged Monday night at Richmond, Ind., and some others are ready to get under way. All will be in tournament play next week.

Meanwhile 52 of the state's sports editors figured today that Middletown was the top Class AA club of that 471-team contingent, and that Bloomville of Seneca County was the quintet to beat in the smaller school race.

The two unbeaten powerhouse teams topped the Associated Press poll. The seven-time champion Middies have been alone at the peak all season, but Bloomville, tied a week ago with Columbus University, broke back in front today.

908 Schools Must Fall

The poll places and current records sometimes mean little as the chips go down in the long grind toward the state meet. Of the 916 schools, 908 must fall by the wayside by the time the March 29-30 finals roll around.

Paint Valley of Ross County is a good illustration. The team has won five straight county league titles but has never won the qualifying tournament — and it starts this week.

Six of Martins Ferry's first 14 games went into overtime — one requiring nine extra sessions — and the Fernians won five of 'em, losing only to strong Steubenville. Marion Harding, two games ahead of Mansfield with two to play, can wrap up the Buckeye Conference crown Friday by beating Findlay.

Red Ash says his Canton South team, beaten only by Canton McKinley on the Bulldog court, is a better club than the one he took the state meet in 1948.

Dalton Star Averaging 29

Duane Miller of Dalton scored 42 in the 100-54 rout of Shreve for a 462 total and 29-point 16-game average. Mike Hyde, Wake-man Western Reserve's 6-foot-7 senior, leads the Lorain area with 410 points and a 27.3 average.

Paul Wyant, Leipsic's standout, scored 70 points last week in two losing games. He scored 29 in the 66-64 loss to Kalida, then poured in 41 as the Vikings bowed 68-67 to Holgate. Hyde of Wakeman also got 70 in two tilts — 26 and 44 — but his team won both. And John Schroeder of Norwalk had 25 and 29 in two starts for 376 and a 26.8 mark.

Portsmouth, 1-17 last year after winning the Class AA title the season before, is back up to 10-4 this season. Sophomore Larry Hise of the Trojans has won two games by sinking a pair of free throws in the last two seconds.

Warren, Niles Meet 61st Time

Warren and Niles stage their 61st game Friday and it could be something. Niles nipped Steubenville 77-76 a couple of weeks ago, and the next night the Stubbers wrecked Warren 94-65, setting the stage for this one.

East Liverpool's Dean Cline averaged 24.4 for seven games in the Big Eight Conference. Denny Gallagher of Mount Gilead scored 46 Saturday as Cardington's non-winners dropped their 14th for a school record. The night before Gallagher was held to 10 as Mount Gilead lost to Mansfield St. Peters. But St. Peter's Milt Pitts counted 39 to hoist his average to 28.

Mansfield Madison had to wait 55 minutes before being awarded a 40-39 victory over Ashland. A last-gasp tip-in by 6-4 Bill Ward was the decider — but the officials had a tough time deciding whether it went in before or after the buzzer sounded.

Cabas Needs Only One Win

Johnny Cabas has a 199-65 record for 13 years as Salem's coach — and hopes to hit the magic 200 this week. Marietta won the Central Ohio League title for the second straight time — but All - Ohio Bill Warden is out for the rest of the year with a twisted knee. Marietta St. Mary's 16-1 team is led by Jim Connelly with a 29-point average.

Amanda-Clearcreek upset Logan Elm Saturday, and the losers dropped from sixth to seventh in the Class A poll.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How 52 sports editors, 32 from newspapers and 20 from radio-TV stations, rate Ohio's high school basketball teams this week in the Associated Press poll.

Shown are the first-place votes in parentheses, the poll points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis and the won-lost records of the leaders:

Compete In Leagues Here Twice Weekly

Bowling is a family affair with the Bren Griffiths of Salem and Damascus.

In fact, Mr. and Mrs. Griffith, their five pretty daughters, two sons and three sons-in-law, could almost form their own league but they bowl regularly with Salem leagues Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Usually, you can find members of a family making up one squad, but the Griffiths have two units competing, with outstanding accomplishments to their credit.

IN THE SPORTSMAN LEAGUE, which bowls every Thursday at the Saxon Lanes here, Griffith Sales and Service are currently in fourth place, 3½ games out of first.

A total of 12 teams compete in that loop. Last year was the first season that the Griffiths entered league action and they walked off with the title.

Bren Griffith, 64, began knocking down pins only three years ago. He has an average of 170 at present.

Other members of the Griffith aggregation, and their averages, include Galen Berger 166, Gale Stewart 167, Don Griffith 166 Earl Bardo 154, Dale Hileman 155, and Jim Griffith 172.

They plan to enter a few of the tournaments in the city and area before the 1963 season closes.

Triplicate games of 168 were rolled by Jim Griffith at Saxon Lanes in 1961, while Stewart had three lines of 169 at Timberlanes in 1958.

MRS. GRIFFITH, 61, and her five daughters bowl in the Field Insurance team Commercial League at Timberlanes each Wednesday. Right now they're in eighth place.

A total of 14 teams compete in the loop. The girls placed seventh in the league last season.

Charlotte Berger leads the team with a 147 average, crew captain Edra Stewart knocks down pins at a 141 clip, while Louis Hileman has a 145 average, Virginia Bardo 136, Connie Hitchcock 115 and Mrs. Griffith 110.

MOST MEMBERS OF the family have been bowling with other teams in organized leagues for several years. When they are not bowling, it is likely you will find them on the golf courses in the area. Golf is their second love.

Charlotte and Edra teamed to take first place in the doubles event of the State Grange Bowling Tournament held last year.

Charlotte has a plaque for completing an all-spare game. Her daughter Sharon rolled an actual 500 series in the Saxon Lanes Junior League during the 1962 Christmas holiday season.

Cincy On Top In AP Survey Again; OSU Is Picked 9th

The University of Cincinnati Bearcats, who have won 37 straight games—including 19 this season—top The Associated Press college basketball poll for the 11th straight week.

Trouble could be ahead when the Bearcats go to Wichita Saturday night. Early last season the Shockers snapped a 27-game Bearcat winning streak, 52-51.

Wichita, No. 9 last week, slipped out of the rankings because of a defeat by St. Louis and Ohio State regained a spot in the voting by the 42 members of the special panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Cincinnati got 40 of the 42 first-place votes. Unbeaten Chicago Loyola, 20-0, which continued as runner-up, got one of the other first place votes. The other went to Duke, 17-2, which retained third place.

Clippers, Lisbon Entered At South

By MARK W. MILLER
News Sports Editor

Coach John Cabas' Salem High School Quakers will battle Struthers in the first round of the Class AA Sectional Tournament at Struthers Field House Feb. 28 at 8:45 p.m.

It will be the third meeting for the two schools in the past three years. Salem knocked off the Wildcats to advance in 1961 and again in 1962.

Salem was seeded No. 3 in the pairings held last night at John Knox United Presbyterian Church in Youngstown. Coach Cabas placed the Quakers into the lower bracket with such goliaths as Niles, Youngstown East and Campbell. The division also includes Austintown Fitch, Newton Falls, and Youngstown North.

Meanwhile, over at South Field House, Columbiana and Lisbon will compete. Gary Pike will guide his Blue Devils' combine against Canfield Feb. 23 at 7:45 p.m., while Coach Rich Berryman takes on one of Leavittsburg's better teams in recent years Feb. 25 at 7:30 p.m.

WARREN HARDING and Hubbard were seeded one-two ahead of Salem. Then came Youngstown Chaney, Liberty, Champion, Niles and Lisbon.

Three games will open the tournament at Struthers Field House Feb. 23, when Beaver Local faces powerful Warren Harding at 6:30 p.m., Lakeview goes against Champion at 7:45 p.m. and Boardman takes on Poland at 9 p.m.

At South Field House, the same night, Hubbard battles Woodrow Wilson at 7:30 p.m. and Canfield meets Lisbon at 7:45.

East Palestine drew one of the two byes awarded, must tackle the winner of the Harding-Beaver Local clash March 2 at Struthers Field House at 7:30.

STUTHERS Coach George Kerlek said "I picked Salem because I think we can beat them." Struthers has an 8-7 record thus far.

Most of the Youngstown schools chose to play in the two brackets at South Field House. Many of the teams have already met in the Youngstown City League this year.

In the opening round at Struthers Field House, only Champion and Lakeview have met before, with the Golden Flashes garnering the victory.

Every team tried to duck Warren and Salem until late in the drawing last night. Beaver Local had the last choice.

Coaches of all the competing schools voted to seed the top eight teams. In the past, the squads with the best records were put into the seeded spots.

REFEREES FOR the tourney games were selected by the coach with assignments for games to be given by the district board.

Officials for the two sectionals include "Red" Angelo, Matt Wansack, Steve Nagy, Bill Woodworth, Phil Koppel, Phil Davidson, Stanley Evans, Sal Guapone, Albert Miller and Ed Fick, Frank Susor and Mike Maro. Tickets for the tourney will be priced the same as they have been in the past. Adult ducats will be one dollar with student admission being 50 cents.

KNOWS THE DIFFERENCE
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Irvin Goode of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League puts the difference between college and pro ball quite succinctly:

"You can imagine someone bigger, faster and smarter, but you don't wise up until he knocks your head off."

"That's when you realize you're really in pro football."

Wisconsin Hands Illinois First Big 10 Loss 84-77

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

Before the start of the college basketball season, Coach Harry Combes of Illinois optimistically declared, "We're shooting for the Big Ten title, and nothing less than a 14-0 mark will please me."

After Monday night, Combes is destined to spend the next few weeks displeased, even if the Illinois, fourth-ranked nationally, manage to wrap up the school's first conference title in 11 years.

ELECTRICITY Cooks Better ... Because it's FLAMELESS

Future homemakers soon learn what Mom already knows... whether you bake, broil, roast or boil you get the same good results every time. That's because electric heat is so accurately controlled you don't guess or trust to luck... you always get the same heat at the same switch setting.

You'll save time and work, too, because electric heat is clean as electric light, so pots and pans stay bright and clean... curtains and walls stay cleaner far longer. And, because only an electric range oven is insulated on all six sides, your kitchen stays cooler when you bake. Surface cooking is cooler, too, because the heat goes directly into the bottom of the pan... no billowing up around the sides. Buy an electric range and you'll get these and many more of the extra advantages you get only with flameless electric cooking.

For Better Cooking and Baking
Make Your Next Range Electric...
It's FLAMELESS

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

Scaled bids will be received by the undersigned, Clerk of the Board of Education of the West Branch Local School District, hereinafter referred to as the Board, in the Counties of Mahoning, Columbiana and Portage, Ohio, at the office of the Board, Main and Fifth streets, Detroit, Ohio (telephone No. YE 8-2115), until twelve noon, Eastern Standard Time, on the 27th day of February, 1963, at which time the bids will be publicly opened and read for the purchase of bonds of the Board in the aggregate amount of $310,000, authorized by resolution adopted January 7, 1963. Bids shall be sealed and endorsed "Bid for School Improvement Bonds."

Said bonds shall be dated the first day of February, 1963, shall be in the denomination of $1,000 each, shall draw interest payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December in each year beginning June 1, 1963, at the rate of 3 1/2% per annum. Anyone desiring to do so may present a bid for said bonds based upon their bearing a different rate of interest, but not in excess of 6% provided that where a fractional interest rate is bid such fraction shall be one-eighth of one per cent of a multiple thereof.

Said bonds mature as follows: $20,000 on December 1, 1964; $20,000 on December 1, 1965; $20,000 on December 1, 1966; and $20,000 on December 1, 1967, inclusive.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of constructing a new high school-auditorium in the new West Branch High School, furnishing and equipping the new West Branch High School, including site, and otherwise improving school site.

Said bonds are payable at the office of the legal depository of the Board, presently The First National Bank of Salem, Salem, Ohio, without deduction for its services as the Board's paying agent, and are supported by unlimited taxes.

Said bids will be promptly considered, and said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder offering the lowest interest rate, not less than par and accrued interest. The lowest interest rate will be determined by calculating the total interest to stated maturity at the rate bid and deducting therefrom the premium bid. If each of two or more bids is the highest bid offering the lowest interest rate, the bonds will be awarded on such one of said highest bids as is chosen by lot. All bids must be accompanied by cash, bank cashier's or official's check, or certified check, payable to the Board, or any combination thereof, aggregating one per cent of the amount of said bonds, upon condition that if the bid is accepted, the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds in accordance with the terms and provisions of this notice. No bank bid for such bonds shall file its own cashier's or official's check, nor a check certified by it. Such security shall be held by the Board unused pending delivery of the bonds and forfeited as full liquidated damages in the event of default by the successful bidder.

The proceedings for this issue have been taken under the supervision of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey, Bond Attorneys, Cleveland, Ohio, whose approving opinion may be obtained by the successful bidder at his expense. A complete transcript of proceedings and the provisions of this notice, No bank bid for such bonds shall file its own cashier's or official's check, nor a check certified by it. Such security shall be held by the Board unused pending delivery of the bonds and forfeited as full liquidated damages in the event of default by the successful bidder.

In the event the interest on said bonds should be act of Congress or otherwise become subject to Federal Income Taxes prior to delivery, the successful bidder may refuse to accept delivery and in such event his bid security shall be returned without interest.

It is contemplated that the Board will meet at 8:00 o'clock p.m. on the 27th day of February, 1963, to consider said bids and make an award.

The bonds will be delivered at the office of the undersigned, or such other place as may be agreed on with the successful bidder. If outside of the limits of the School District the bidder shall pay expense of delivery at that place.

Before making tender of the bonds at the place of delivery, the Board shall give written notice to the successful bidder not later than the third day before the proposed tender, of the fact that the bonds, transcript, non-litigation certificate, and approving opinion will be available for delivery and giving the date and hour for the tender at the said place of delivery, provided however that nothing herein contained shall prevent the making of a mutually agreeable arrangement for the delivery of the bonds either at the place fixed for delivery or elsewhere.

If such notice has not been given by the Board or if the successful bidder and the bonds, transcript, non-litigation certificate and approving opinion are not available for delivery to the successful bidder at such place of delivery on or before 12:00 noon on the 27th day of February, the date fixed for the receipt of bids, and the successful bidder shall not be in default of any of his obligations, he shall have the right thereafter and so long as no such tender by the Board shall yet have been

A word from THERON at the Country Store

Some time ago I wrote about a lady buying a pie which offered extra stamps. It was a variety that no one in her family cared for so she gave the pie to her sister who is a regular customer here at the Country Store. Last night this lady did her shopping here again. We believe she is getting cured from her stamp sickness. I'll have to take much of the blame because I got her started on the things in the first place.

She is such a nice lady and I am sure glad to see her back here enjoying our low no stamp prices.

Columbiana Students To Have Science Fair

COLUMBIANA — Students in the Junior and Senior High science classes will display their creations to the public at this year's "Science Fair" in the High School gym from 5 to 10 p.m., Wednesday.

Last year's exhibit, which was well-attended, included such displays as charts of the elements, demonstrations, dissected biology specimens and models of body organs.

Eldon Strausbaugh biology teacher, and Feodoro DeTunno, junior high science instructor, are advisers for the fair.

Outstanding exhibits will be entered in either the Tri-County Science Fair at Austintown or the Tri-State Science Fair in Steubenville in March.

PARENT-TEACHER ORGANIZATION meeting will begin with a business meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the high school auditorium and will conclude with a visit to the "Science Fair."

FORMER COLUMBIANA MAYOR, Erwood Calvin declared in a talk before Rotary Club Monday, that there is a definite need for the formation of a development commission which would acquire land for industrial expansion in Columbiana.

Although not suggested as a Rotary project, it was meant as a possible future undertaking of the local businessmen. As chairman of the Community Service Committee, Calvin also discussed the past and future of Columbiana County and quoted historical statistics, ranging from the Civil War to the year 1879 at which time the city of Columbiana had a total population of 1,400 persons.

A question and answer period followed and Edward Knowles, Rotarian from Alliance, which has a similar development commission, told of the effect the commission has had on business in that area.

Other visiting Rotarians were Ernest Mitchell and David Kessler of Struthers.

At Monday's meeting, Raymond Oswald, manager of the Steel Division of the Sharon Steel Corp., will discuss the new "Stora-Kaldo" furnace which uses oxygen as fuel and is the first installation of this type in use in the western hemisphere.
